

Agreement with personal data processing for marketing purposes

In Simplicityinvestments Inc. we are honest with you and as a such, it's important for us, that you know, how is your personal data processed and for what purposes is your data being used. Personal data, which will be processed based on your agreement are as following: name, contact data, transaction data, geolocation data, information from your web browser and data, which we use to meet our legal obligations. We obtain a data directly from you, from surveys or from user testing.

The purpose of data processing includes offer of products and services provided by Simplicityinvestments Inc., the offers made via electronic channels, marketing analysis, customer analysis with goal of tailoring the offer to the individual needs of a person in order to improve our services.

By agreeing with this contract, you also agree that Simplicityinvestments Inc. can store a process your personal data for marketing purposes.

This agreement is valid since 25.5.2018, when the new law of EU for personal data protection (GDPR) takes action. Indorsing this agreement doesn't have any effect on the current marketing agreement we received from you, if there is any. Agreement is voluntary and can be revoked anytime. To revoke this agreement please send e-mail to support@betrent.com. Agreement is valid as long as you use any of our services and 1 year after or untill the agreement is abolished. If you don't become our client, your agreement will be valid for 1 year after the consent has been given.

Personal data, like basic data, that couldn't be deleted due to legal responsibilities, will be blocked for your safety.

You have right to request information regarding your personal data which we store, about their origin, about recipients or categories of recipients who received your data, as well as about intention regarding the purpose of storing your data.

If your data at Simplicity Investments. Inc are not correct, you can fix them anytime on your user account or you can ask us to do it for you.

If you request your personal data, which we process we will give it to you or to any other administrator that you will mark in structured, regularly used, mechanical format. We will forward your data to other administrator only if it will be technically possible.

You have right to give objection against processing your personal data for the purpose of direct marketing anytime and without need to give a reason.

During contact with you we will store your data (your e-mail address, your name and other data) for purpose of answering your query or to help you resolve your request. Data saved this way will be deleted the moment your query will be solved. Eventually, we will limit the use of your personal data in case there will be legal responsibilities to store your data.

Besides that, you are allowed to give an objection at the supervision office against processing of your personal data, if you are under impression that your rights for personal data protection has been violated.

For disputes please contact following person:

Commissioner for personal data protection

e-mail: support@betrent.com or contact office for personal data protection.

Thank you for your trust.